3 Sons Italian

Denver is filled with great neighborhoods, many of which have restaurants you probably wouldn't know about if you didn't live in the area. A family friend who lives in Arvada recently suggested lunch at 3 Sons Italian. Not being familiar with this restaurant and loving Italian food, the lunch couldn't have come soon enough.

We found 3 Sons to be a charming family eatery with some very good food. Looking for dishes that would shed light on their culinary talents, my order was the 3 Little Pigs Pizza loaded with pepperoni, Belfiore's sausage and crispy pancetta. The pizza was delicious and did not disappoint. The crust was not too thin or too thick and had a nice Italian bread quality to it being crusty on the outside and chewy on the inside. The sauce was tangy and the toppings were high quality, especially the meats.

Still on a lifelong quest to try every great Mac and Cheese dish possible, a small taste of 3 Son's Mac and Cheese was coaxed from the kitchen. It was shared around the table and everyone was quite impressed. If you're looking for a truly decadent dose of garlic and thick, rich, creamy cheese over noodles topped with toasted bread crumbs, you need to get to 3 Sons for the Mac and Cheese.

Other people in our party had the Chicken Marsala, the Chicken Parmigiana and The Godfather sandwich, all of which were reported to be quite good. If you live in the Arvada area or find yourself there in the future, please give 3 Sons Italian a try.
